

Proposal for a

DIRECTIVE OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL

on collective management of copyright and related rights and multi-territorial licensing of rights in musical works for online uses in the internal market

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Articles 50(1), 53 and 62 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

- (1) The Directives which have been adopted in the area of copyright and related rights already provide a high level of protection for rightholders and thereby ■ a framework wherein the exploitation of content protected by these rights can take place. These Directives contribute to developing and maintaining creativity. In an internal market where competition is not distorted, protecting innovation and intellectual creation also encourages investment in innovative services and products.
- (2) The dissemination of content which is protected by copyright and related rights ■ , including books, audiovisual productions and recorded music and services linked thereto, requires the licensing of rights by different holders of copyright and related rights, such as authors, performers, producers and publishers. It is normally for the rightholder to choose between the individual or collective management of his rights, unless Member States provide otherwise, in compliance with Union law and the international obligations of the Union and its Member States. Management of copyright and related rights includes the granting of licences to users, the auditing of licensees, the monitoring of the use of rights, the enforcement of copyright and related rights, the collection of rights revenue derived from the exploitation of rights and the distribution of the amounts due to rightholders. Collective management organisations enable rightholders to be remunerated for uses which they would not be in a position to control or enforce themselves, including in non-domestic markets. **■

- (2a) Article 167 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union requires the Union to take cultural diversity into account in its action and to contribute to the flowering of the cultures of the Member States, while respecting their national and regional diversity and at the same time bringing the common cultural heritage to the fore. Collective management organisations have and should continue to have an important role as promoters of the diversity of cultural expression, both by enabling the smallest and less popular repertoires to access the market and by providing social, cultural and educational services for the benefit of their rightholders and the public.
- (3) When established in the Union, collective management organisations should be able to enjoy the freedoms provided by the Treaties when representing rightholders resident or established in other Member States or granting licences to users resident or established in other Member States.

- (4) There are significant differences in the national rules governing the functioning of collective management organisations, in particular as regards their transparency and accountability to their members and rightholders. This has led in a number of instances to difficulties, in particular for non-domestic rightholders, in exercising their rights and to poor financial management of the revenues collected. Problems with the functioning of collective management organisations lead to inefficiencies in the exploitation of copyright and related rights across the internal market to the detriment of the members of collective management organisations, rightholders and users alike. ■
- (5) The need to improve the functioning of collective management organisations has already been identified in ■ Commission Recommendation 2005/737/EC of 18 May 2005 on collective cross-border management of copyright and related rights for legitimate online music services¹. This Recommendation set out a number of principles, such as the freedom of rightholders to choose their collective management organisations, ■ equal treatment of categories of rightholders and ■ equitable distribution of royalties. It called on collective management organisations, to provide users with sufficient information on tariffs and repertoire in advance of ■ negotiations between them. It also contained recommendations on accountability, rightholder representation in the decision-making bodies of collective management organisations and dispute resolution. However, the Recommendation ■ has been unevenly followed.

- (6) The protection of the interests of the members of collective management organisations, rightholders and third parties requires that the laws of the Member States related to copyright management and multi-territorial licensing of online rights in musical works should be coordinated with a view to having equivalent safeguards throughout the Union. Accordingly, the Directive is based on Article 50(1) of the Treaty.
- (7) This Directive aims at coordinating national rules concerning the access to the activity of managing copyright and related rights by collective management organisations, the modalities for their governance, and their supervisory framework and is also based on Article 53 ■ of the Treaty. In addition, since this is a sector offering services across the Union, this Directive is based on Article 62 of the Treaty.
- (7a) This Directive aims at setting requirements applicable to collective management organisations to ensure a high standard of governance, financial management, transparency and reporting. This however should not prevent Member States from maintaining or imposing more stringent standards than the ones laid down in Title II of this Directive to collective management organisations established in their territories, provided that such more stringent standards are compatible with Union law.

- (7b) Nothing in this Directive should preclude a Member State from applying the same or similar provisions to collective management organisations established outside the Union but which are operating in that Member State.*
- (7bb) Nothing in this Directive should preclude collective management organisations from concluding representation agreements with other collective management organisations – in compliance with competition rules under Articles 101 and 102 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union – in the area of rights management in order to facilitate, improve and simplify the procedures for licensing users, including for the purposes of single invoicing, under equal, non-discriminatory and transparent conditions, and to offer multi-territorial licences also in areas other than those referred to in Title III.*

- (7c) This Directive, while applying to all collective management organisations, with the exception of Title III which only applies to collective management organisations managing authors' rights in musical works for online use on a multi-territorial basis, does not interfere with arrangements concerning the management of rights in the Member States such as individual management, the extended effect of an agreement between a representative collective management organisation and a user, i.e. extended collective licensing, mandatory collective management, legal presumptions of representation and transfer of rights to collective management organisations.
- (7ca) This Directive does not affect the possibility for Member States to determine by law, by regulation or by any other specific mechanism to that effect rightholders' fair compensation for exceptions or limitations to the reproduction right provided for in Article 5, paragraph 2, of Directive 2001/29/EC on the harmonisation of certain aspects of copyright and related rights in the information society and rightholders' remuneration for derogations from the exclusive right in respect of public lending provided for in Article 6, paragraph 1, of Directive 2006/115/EC on rental right and lending right and on certain rights related to copyright in the field of intellectual property applicable in their territory as well as the conditions applicable for their collection.

(7d) This Directive does not require that collective management organisations adopt a specific legal form. In practice, these organisations operate in various legal forms such as associations, cooperatives or limited liability companies, which are controlled or owned by holders of copyright and related rights or by entities representing such rightholders. In some exceptional cases however, due to the legal form of a collective management organisation, the element of ownership or control is not present. This is, for example, the case for foundations, which do not have membership. Nonetheless, the provisions of this Directive should also apply to them. In the same manner, Member States should take appropriate measures to prevent the circumvention of the obligations under this Directive through the choice of legal form. Moreover, entities representing rightholders, and being members of collective management organisations, may be other collective management organisations, associations of rightholders, unions or other organisations.

(7da) Rightholders may entrust the management of their rights to independent management entities. These are commercial entities which differ from collective management organisations including because they are not owned or controlled by rightholders. However, to the extent these independent management entities carry out the same activities as collective management organisations, they should be obliged to provide certain information to the rightholders they represent, collective management organisations, users as well as to the public. Audio-visual producers, record producers and broadcasters license their own rights, in certain cases alongside rights that have been transferred to them by, for instance, performers, on the basis of individually negotiated agreements and act in their own interest. Book, music or newspaper publishers license rights that have been transferred to them on the basis of individually negotiated agreements and act in their own interest. Therefore audio-visual producers, record producers, broadcasters as well as publishers should not be considered “independent management entities”. Furthermore, authors’ and performers’ managers and agents acting as intermediaries and representing rightholders in their relations with collective management organisations should not be considered “independent management entities” as they do not manage rights in the sense of setting tariffs, granting licences or collecting money from users.

- (7e) Collective management organisations may choose to have certain of their activities, such as the invoicing of users or the distribution of amounts due to rightholders, carried out by subsidiaries or by other entities that they control. In such cases, those provisions of this Directive that would be applicable if the relevant activity were carried out directly by a collective management organisation, should be applied to the activities of the subsidiaries or other entities.
- (8) In order to ensure that holders of copyright and related rights can benefit fully from the internal market when their rights are being managed collectively and that their freedom to exercise their rights is not unduly affected, it is necessary to provide for the inclusion of appropriate safeguards in the constituting documents of collective management organisations. Moreover, a collective management organisation should not discriminate, directly or indirectly, between rightholders on the basis of their nationality, place of residence or place of establishment when providing its management services.

- (9) Having the Treaty freedoms to provide and to receive collective management of copyright and related rights entails that a rightholder is able to choose freely a collective management organisation for the management of his rights, whether they be communication to the public or reproduction rights, or categories of rights related to forms of exploitation such as broadcasting, theatrical exhibition or reproduction for online distribution, provided that the collective management organisation the rightholder wishes to choose already manages such rights or categories of rights. The rights, categories of rights or types of works and other subject matter managed by the collective management organisation should be determined by the general assembly of members if not already determined in the statute of the collective management organisation or prescribed by law. It is important that the rights and categories of rights are determined in a manner that maintains a balance between the freedom of rightholders to dispose of their works and other subject matter and the ability of the organisation to manage effectively the rights taking into account in particular the type of rights managed by the organisation and the creative sector in which it operates. Taking due account of this balance, rightholders should be able to withdraw easily such rights or categories of rights from a collective management organisation and to manage these rights individually or to entrust or transfer all or part of them to another collective management organisation or another entity irrespective of the Member State of nationality, residence or establishment, of either the collective management organisation or the rightholder. Where a Member State, in compliance with Union law and the international obligations of the Union and its Member States, provides for mandatory collective management of rights, rightholders' choice would be limited to other collective management organisations. Collective management organisations managing different types of works and other subject matter, such as literary, musical or photographic works, should also allow this flexibility to rightholders as regards the management of different types of works and other subject matter. As far as non-commercial uses are concerned, Member States should provide that collective management organisations take the necessary steps to ensure that their rightholders can exercise the right to grant licences for such uses. Such steps should include, inter alia, a decision by the collective management organisation on the conditions attached to the exercise of this right as well as providing information to their members on these conditions. Collective management organisations should inform rightholders of their choices and allow them to exercise the rights related to these choices as easily as possible.

Rightholders who have already authorised the collective management organisation may be informed via the website of the organisation. A requirement for the consent of rightholders to the management of each right, category of rights or type of works and other subject matter in the authorisation should not prevent the rightholders from accepting proposed subsequent amendments to that authorisation by tacit agreement in accordance with the conditions set out in national law. Neither contractual arrangements according to which a termination or withdrawal by rightholders has an immediate effect on licences granted prior to such termination or withdrawal, nor contractual arrangements according to which such licences remain unaffected for a certain period of time after such termination or withdrawal, are, as such, precluded by this Directive. Such arrangements however should not create an obstacle to the full application of this Directive. This Directive should not prejudice the possibility for rightholders to manage their rights individually, including for non-commercial uses.

- (10) Membership of collective management organisations should be based on objective, transparent and non-discriminatory criteria, including as regards publishers who by virtue of an agreement on the exploitation of rights ■ are entitled to a share of the income from the rights managed by collective management organisations and to collect such income from the collective management organisations. These criteria should not oblige collective management organisations to accept members the management of whose rights, categories of rights or types of works or other subject matter falls outside their scope of activity. The records kept by a collective management organisation should allow for the identification and location of its members and rightholders whose rights the organisation represents on the basis of authorisations given by these rightholders.

- (10a) In order to protect those rightholders whose rights are directly represented by the collective management organisation but who do not fulfil its membership requirements, it is appropriate to require that certain provisions of the Directive relating to members are also applied to such rightholders. Member States may also provide such rightholders with rights to participate in the decision-making process of the collective management organisation.
- (11) Collective management organisations should act in the best collective interests of the rightholders they represent. It is therefore important to provide for systems which enable the members of a collective management organisation to exercise their membership rights by participating in the organisation's decision-making process. Some collective management organisations have different categories of members, which may represent different types of rightholders, such as producers and performers. The representation in the decision-making process of these different categories of members should be fair and balanced. The effectiveness of the rules on the general assembly of members of collective management organisations would be undermined if there were no provisions on how the general assembly should be run. Thus, it is necessary to ensure that the general assembly is convened regularly, and at least annually, and that the most important decisions in the collective management organisation are taken by the general assembly.

- (12) All members of collective management organisations should be allowed to participate and vote in the general assembly of members; the exercise of these rights should only be subject to fair and proportionate restrictions. In some exceptional cases, collective management organisations have been established in the legal form of a foundation, hence they have no membership. In such cases, the powers of the general assembly of members should be exercised by the body entrusted with the supervisory function. Where collective management organisations have entities representing rightholders as their members, such as may be the case where a collective management organisation is a limited liability company and its members are associations of rightholders, Member States may provide that some or all powers of the general assembly of members should be exercised by an assembly of these rightholders. The general assembly of members should, at least, have the power to set the framework of the activities of the management, in particular with respect to the use of rights revenue by the collective management organisation. This should however be without prejudice to the possibility for Member States to provide for more stringent rules on, for example, investments, mergers or taking out loans, including a prohibition on any such transactions. Collective management organisations should encourage the active participation of their members in the general assembly. The exercise of voting rights should be facilitated for members who attend the general assembly and also for those who do not. In addition to the exercise of members' rights by electronic means, members should be allowed to participate and vote in the general assembly of members through a proxy. Proxy voting should be restricted in cases of conflicts of interest. At the same time, Member States should only provide for restrictions as regards proxies if this does not prejudice the appropriate and effective participation of members in the decision-making process. In particular, the appointment of proxy holders contributes to the appropriate and effective participation of members in the decision-making process and allows rightholders to have a true opportunity to opt for a collective management organisation of their choice irrespective of the Member State of establishment of the organisation.

- (13) Members should be allowed to take part in the continuous monitoring of the management of collective management organisations. To this end, these organisations should have a supervisory function appropriate to their organisational structure and allow members to be represented in the body that exercises this function. Depending on the organisational structure of the collective management organisation, the supervisory function may be exercised by a separate body, such as a supervisory board, or by some or all of the directors in the administrative board who do not manage the business of the collective management organisation. The requirement of fair and balanced representation of members should not prevent the collective management organisation from appointing third parties to exercise the supervisory function, including persons with relevant professional expertise and rightholders who do not fulfil the membership requirements or who are not directly represented by the organisation but via an entity which is a member of the collective management organisation.

- (14) For reasons of sound management, a collective management organisation's management must be independent. Managers, whether elected as directors or hired or employed by the organisation on the basis of a contract, should be required to declare, prior to taking their position and thereafter on a yearly basis, whether there are conflicts between their interests and those of the rightholders that are represented by the collective management organisation. Such annual statements should be also made by persons exercising the supervisory function. Member States should be free to require collective management organisations to make such statements public or submit them to public authorities.
- (15) Collective management organisations collect, manage and distribute revenue from the exploitation of the rights entrusted to them by rightholders. This revenue is ultimately due to rightholders, who may have a direct legal relationship with the organisation, or may be represented via an entity which is the member of the collective management organisation or via a representation agreement. It is therefore important that a collective management organisation exercises the utmost diligence in collecting, managing and distributing this revenue. Accurate distribution is only possible where the collective management organisation maintains proper records of membership, licences and use of works and other subject matter. Relevant data that is required for the efficient collective management of rights should also be provided by rightholders and users and verified by the collective management organisation.

(15a) Amounts collected and due to rightholders should be kept separately in the accounts from any own assets the organisation may have. Without prejudice to the possibility for Member States to provide for more stringent rules on investment, including a prohibition of the investment of the rights revenue, where such amounts are invested, this should be carried out in accordance with the collective management organisation's general investment and risk management policy. In order to maintain a high level of protection for the rights of rightholders and to ensure that any income that may arise from the exploitation of their rights accrues to the benefit of rightholders, the investments made and held by the collective management organisation should be managed in accordance with criteria which would oblige the organisation to act prudently, while allowing it to decide on the most secure and efficient investment policy. This should allow the collective management organisation to opt for an asset allocation that suits the precise nature and duration of any exposure to risk of any rights revenue invested and which does not unduly prejudice any rights revenue owed to rightholders. ■

- (16) Since rightholders are entitled to be remunerated for the exploitation of their rights, it is important that management fees do not exceed justified costs of the management of the rights and that any deduction, other than management fees, for example a deduction for social, cultural or educational purposes, be decided by the members of the collective management organisation and for collective management organisations to be transparent towards rightholders regarding the rules governing these deductions. The same requirements should apply to any decision to use the rights revenue for collective distribution, such as scholarships. Rightholders should have access, on a non-discriminatory basis, to any social, cultural or educational service funded through such deductions. This Directive should not affect deductions under national law, such as deductions for the provision of social services by collective management organisations to rightholders, on any aspects that are not regulated by this Directive provided that such deductions are in compliance with Union law.

(16a) The distribution and payment of the amounts due to individual rightholders or, as the case may be, to categories of rightholders, should be carried out in a timely manner and in accordance with the general policy on the distribution, including when performed via another entity representing the rightholders. Only objective reasons beyond the control of a collective management organisation can justify delay in the distribution and payment of amounts due to rightholders and therefore circumstances such as the rights revenue having been invested subject to a maturity date do not qualify as valid reasons for such a delay. It is appropriate to leave it to Member States to decide on rules ensuring the timely distribution and effective search of rightholders in cases where such objective reasons occur. In order to ensure that the amounts due to rightholders are appropriately and effectively distributed, without prejudice to the possibility for Member States to provide for more stringent rules, it is necessary to require collective management organisations to take reasonable and diligent measures, on the basis of good faith, to identify and locate the relevant rightholders. It is also appropriate that members of the collective management organisation, to the extent allowed for under national law, decide on the use of any amounts that cannot be distributed in situations where rightholders entitled to these amounts cannot be identified or located.

- (17) Collective management organisations may manage rights and collect revenue from their exploitation ■ under representation agreements with other organisations. To protect the rights of the members of the other collective management organisation, a collective management organisation should not distinguish between the rights it manages under representation agreements and those it manages directly for its rightholders. Nor should the collective management organisation be allowed to apply deductions to the rights revenue collected on behalf of another collective management organisation, other than management fees, without the other organisation's express consent. It is also appropriate to require collective management organisations to distribute and make payments to other organisations on the basis of such representation agreements no later than they distribute and pay to their own members and non-member rightholders they represent. Furthermore, the recipient organisation should in turn be required to distribute the amounts due to the rightholders it represents without delay.

(18) Fair and non-discriminatory commercial terms in licensing are particularly important to ensure that users can obtain licences for works and other ■ subject-matter in respect of which a collective management organisation represents rights and to ensure the appropriate remuneration of rightholders. Collective management organisations and users should therefore conduct licensing negotiations in good faith and apply tariffs which should be determined on the basis of objective and non-discriminatory criteria. It is appropriate to require that the licence fee or remuneration determined by collective management organisations is reasonable in relation to, inter alia, the economic value of the use of the rights in a particular context. Finally, collective management organisations should respond without undue delay to requests for licences by users.

(18 0a) In the digital environment, collective management organisations are regularly required to license their repertoire for totally new forms of exploitation and business models. In such cases and in order to foster an environment conducive to the development of such licences, without prejudice to the application of competition law rules, collective management organisations should have the flexibility required to provide, as swiftly as possible, individualised licences for innovative online services, without the risk of the terms of these licences being used as a precedent for determining the terms for other licences.

(18a) In order to ensure that collective management organisations can comply with the obligations set out in this Directive, users should provide these organisations with relevant information on the use of the rights represented by the collective management organisations. This obligation should not apply to natural persons acting for purposes outside their trade, business, craft or profession and who therefore fall outside the definition of user in this Directive. Moreover, the information required by collective management organisations should be limited to what is reasonable, necessary and at the users' disposal in order for them to perform their functions, taking into account the specific situation of small and medium sized enterprises. This obligation could be included in an agreement between a collective management organisation and a user; this does not preclude national statutory rights to information. The deadlines applicable to the provision of information by users should be such as to allow collective management organisations to meet the deadlines set for the distribution of amounts due to rightholders. This Directive should be without prejudice to Member States' possibility to oblige collective management organisations established in their territory to issue joint invoices.

- (19) To enhance the trust of rightholders, users and other collective management organisations in the management of rights by collective management organisations, each collective management organisation should comply with specific transparency requirements. Each collective management organisation or its member being an entity responsible for attribution or payment of amounts due to rightholders should therefore be required to provide certain information to individual rightholders at least once a year, such as the amounts attributed or paid to them and the █ deductions made. Collective management organisations should also be required to provide sufficient information, including financial information, to the other collective management organisations whose rights they manage under representation agreements.
- (19a) To ensure that rightholders, other collective management organisations and users have access to information on the scope of activity of the organisation and the rights or other subject matter it represents, a collective management organisation should also provide information on these issues upon a duly justified request. The question whether and to what extent reasonable fees can be charged for providing this service should be left to national law. Each collective management organisation should also make public information on its structure and how it carries out its activities, including in particular its statutes and general policies on management fees, deductions and tariffs.

- (20) To ensure that rightholders are in a position to monitor and compare the respective performances of collective management organisations, collective management organisations should make public an annual transparency report comprising comparable audited financial information specific to their activities. Collective management organisations should also make public an annual special report, which forms part of the annual transparency report, on the use of amounts dedicated to social, cultural and educational services. This Directive should not preclude a collective management organisation from publishing the information required by the annual transparency report in a single document, for example as part of its annual financial statements, or in separate reports.

- (21) The providers of online services which make use of musical works, such as music services that allow consumers to download music or to listen to it in streaming mode, as well as other services providing access to films or games where music is an important element, must first obtain the right to use such works. Directive 2001/29/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 22 May 2001 on the harmonisation of certain aspects of copyright and related rights in the information society¹ requires that a licence be obtained for each of the rights in the online exploitation of musical works. In respect of authors, these rights are the exclusive right of reproduction and the exclusive right of communication to the public of musical works, which includes the right of making available. They may be managed by the individual rightholders themselves, such as authors or music publishers, or by collective management organisations that provide collective management services to rightholders. Different collective management organisations may manage the reproduction and the communication to the public rights of authors. Furthermore, there are instances where several rightholders have rights in the same work and may have authorised different organisations to license their respective shares of rights in the work. Any user wishing to provide an online service offering a wide choice of musical works to consumers, needs to aggregate rights in works from different rightholders and collective management organisations.

- (22) While the Internet knows no borders, the online market for music services in the Union is still fragmented, and a digital single market has not yet been fully achieved. The complexity and difficulty associated with the collective management of rights in Europe has, in a number of instances, exacerbated the fragmentation of the European digital market for online music services. This situation is in stark contrast to the fast growing demand on the part of consumers for access to digital content and associated innovative services, including across national borders.
- (23) Commission Recommendation 2005/737/EC promoted a new regulatory environment better suited to the management, at Union level, of copyright and related rights for the provision of legitimate online music services. It recognised that in an era of online exploitation of musical works, commercial users need a licensing policy that corresponds to the ubiquity of the online environment and which is multi-territorial. However, the Recommendation ■ has not been sufficient to encourage the widespread multi-territorial licensing of online rights in musical works or to address the specific demands of multi-territorial licensing.

(24) In the online music sector, where collective management of authors' rights on a territorial basis remains the norm, it is essential to create conditions conducive to the most effective licensing practices by collective management organisations in an increasingly cross-border context. It is therefore appropriate to provide a set of rules prescribing basic conditions for the provision by collective management organisations of multi-territorial collective licensing of authors' online rights in musical works including lyrics. The same rules should apply to such licensing of all musical works, including musical works incorporated in audiovisual works. Online services solely providing access to musical works in sheet music form should however not be covered. The provisions of this Directive should ensure the necessary minimum quality of cross-border services provided by collective management organisations, notably in terms of transparency of repertoire represented and accuracy of financial flows related to the use of the rights. They should also set out a framework for facilitating the voluntary aggregation of music repertoire and rights, thus reducing the number of licences a user needs to operate a multi-territory, multi-repertoire service. These provisions should enable a collective management organisation to request another organisation to represent its repertoire on a multi-territorial basis where it cannot or does not wish to fulfil the requirements itself. There should be an obligation on the requested organisation, provided that it already aggregates repertoire and offers or grants multi-territorial licences, to accept the mandate of the requesting organisation. The development of legal online music services across the Union should also contribute to the fight against online infringements of copyright.

- (25) The availability of accurate and comprehensive information on ■ musical works, rightholders and the rights that each collective management organisation is authorised to represent in a given territory is of particular importance for an effective and transparent licensing process, for the subsequent processing of the usage reports and the related invoicing of service providers, as well as for the distribution of amounts due ■. For this reason, collective management organisations granting multi-territorial licences for musical works should be able to process such detailed data quickly and accurately. This requires the use of ■ databases on ownership of rights that are licensed on a multi-territorial basis, containing data that allow for the identification of works, rights and rightholders that a collective management organisation is authorised to represent and of the territories in respect of which the authorisation extends. Any changes to this information should be taken into account without undue delay and the databases should be continually updated. These databases should also help to match information on works with information on phonograms or any other fixation in which the work has been incorporated. It is also important to ensure that prospective licensees and rightholders as well as collective management organisations have access to the information they need in order to identify the repertoire that those organisations are representing. Collective management organisations should be able to take measures to protect the accuracy and integrity of the data, to control its reuse or to protect commercially sensitive information.

- (26) To ensure that the data on the music repertoire they process is as accurate as possible, collective management organisations granting multi-territorial licences of musical works should be required to update their databases continuously and without delay as necessary. They should establish easily accessible procedures to enable online service providers, as well as rightholders and other collective management organisations to inform them of any inaccuracy that the organisations' databases may contain in respect of works they own or control, including rights – in whole or in part – and territories for which they have mandated the relevant collective management organisation to act, without however jeopardising the veracity and integrity of the data held by the collective management organisation. In the light of Article 12(b) of Directive 95/46/EC which grants to every data subject the right to obtain rectification, erasure or blocking of inaccurate or incomplete data, this Directive also ensures that inaccurate information regarding rightholders or other collective management organisations in the case of multi-territorial licences is to be corrected without undue delay. Collective management organisations should also have the capacity to process electronically the registration of works and authorisations to manage rights. Given the importance of information automation for the fast and effective processing of data, collective management organisations should provide for the use of electronic means for the structured communication of that information by rightholders. Collective management organisations should, as far as possible, ensure that such electronic means take into account the relevant voluntary industry standards or practices developed at international or Union level.

(27) █ Industry standards for music usage, sales reporting and invoicing are instrumental in improving efficiency in the exchange of data between collective management organisations and users. Monitoring of the use of licences should respect fundamental rights, including the right to respect for private and family life and the right to protection of personal data █ . To ensure that these efficiency gains result in faster financial processing and ultimately in earlier payments to rightholders, collective management organisations should be required to invoice service providers and to distribute amounts due to rightholders without delay. For this requirement to be effective, it is necessary that licensees provide collective management organisations with accurate and timely reports on the use of works. Collective management organisations should not be required to accept users' reports in proprietary formats when widely used industry standards are available. Collective management organisations should not be precluded from outsourcing services relating to the granting of multi-territorial licences for online rights in musical works. Sharing or consolidation of back office capabilities should help the organisations to improve management services and rationalise investments in data management tools.

- (29) Aggregating ■ different music repertoires for multi-territorial licensing facilitates the licensing process and, by making all repertoires accessible to the market for multi-territorial licensing, enhances cultural diversity and contributes to reducing the number of transactions an online service provider needs in order to offer services. This aggregation of repertoires should facilitate the development of new online services, and should also result in a reduction of transaction costs being passed on to consumers. Therefore, collective management organisations that are not willing to or are not able to grant multi-territorial licences directly in their own music repertoire should be encouraged on a voluntary basis to mandate other collective management organisations to manage their repertoire on a non-discriminatory basis. Exclusivity in agreements on multi-territorial licences would restrict the choices available to users seeking multi-territorial licences and also restrict the choices available to collective management organisations seeking administration services for their repertoire on a multi-territorial basis. Therefore, all representation agreements between collective management organisations providing for multi-territorial licensing should be concluded on a non-exclusive basis.

- (30) The transparency of the conditions under which collective management organisations manage the online rights they have been authorised to represent is of particular importance to members of collective management organisations. Collective management organisations should therefore provide sufficient information to their members on the main terms of any agreement mandating any other collective management organisation to represent these members' online music rights for the purposes of multi-territorial licensing.

- (31) It is also important to require any collective management organisations that offer or grant multi-territorial licences to agree to represent the repertoire of any collective management organisations that decide not to do so directly. To ensure that this requirement is not disproportionate and does not go beyond what is necessary, the requested collective management organisation should only be required to accept the representation if the request is limited to the online right or categories of online rights that it represents itself. Moreover, this requirement should only apply to collective management organisations which aggregate repertoire and should not extend to collective management organisations which provide multi-territorial licences for their own repertoire only. Nor should it apply to collective management organisations which merely aggregate rights in the same works for the purpose of being able to license jointly both reproduction and communication to the public rights in such works. To protect the interests of the rightholders of the mandating collective management organisation and to ensure that small and less well-known repertoires in Member States can access the internal market on equal terms, it is important that the repertoire of the mandating collective management organisation is managed on the same conditions as the repertoire of the mandated collective management organisation and that it is included in offers that the mandated collective management organisation addresses to online service providers. The management fee charged by the mandated collective management organisation should allow this organisation to recoup the necessary and reasonable investments incurred. Any agreement whereby a collective management organisation mandates another organisation or organisations to grant multi-territorial licences in its own music repertoire for online use should not prevent this first-mentioned collective management organisation from continuing to grant licences limited to the territory of the Member State where this organisation is established, in its own repertoire and in any other repertoire it may be authorised to represent in this territory.

- (32) The objectives and the effectiveness of the rules on multi-territorial licensing by collective management organisations would be significantly jeopardised if rightholders were not able to exercise such rights in respect of multi-territorial licences when the collective management organisation to which they have granted their rights did not grant or offer multi-territorial licences and furthermore did not want to mandate another collective management organisation to do so. For this reason, it would be important in such circumstances, to enable rightholders to exercise the right to grant the multi-territorial licences required by online service providers themselves or through another party or parties, by withdrawing from their original collective management organisation their rights to the extent necessary for multi-territorial licensing for online uses and leave the same rights with their original organisation for purposes of mono-territorial licensing.

(35) Broadcasting organisations generally rely on a licence from a local collective management organisation, for their own broadcasts of television and radio programmes which include musical works. This licence is often limited to broadcasting activities. A licence for online rights in musical works would be required in order to allow such television or radio broadcasts to be also available online. To facilitate the licensing of online music rights for the purposes of simultaneous and delayed transmission online of television and radio broadcasts, it is necessary to provide for a derogation from the rules that would otherwise apply to the multi-territorial licensing of musical works for online uses. Such a derogation should be limited to what is necessary to allow access to television or radio programmes online and to material having a clear and subordinate relationship to the original broadcast produced for purposes such as supplementing, previewing or reviewing that television or radio programme. That derogation should not operate so as to distort competition with other services which give consumers access to individual musical or audiovisual works online, nor lead to restrictive practices, such as market or customer sharing, which would be in breach of Articles 101 or 102 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union.

(36) It is necessary to ensure the effective enforcement of the provisions of national law adopted pursuant to this Directive. Collective management organisations should offer their members specific procedures for the handling of complaints . These procedures should also be made available to other rightholders directly represented by the organisation and to other collective management organisations on whose behalf it manages rights under a representation agreement. Furthermore, Member States should be able to provide that disputes between collective management organisations, their members, rightholders or users as to the application of this Directive can be submitted to a rapid, independent and impartial alternative dispute resolution procedure. In particular, the effectiveness of the rules on multi-territorial licensing of online rights in musical works could be undermined if disputes between collective management organisations and other parties were not solved quickly and efficiently. As a result, it is appropriate to provide, without prejudice to the right of access to a tribunal, for the possibility of easily accessible, efficient and impartial out-of-court procedure, such as mediation or arbitration, for resolving conflicts between collective management organisations granting multi-territorial licences, on the one hand, and online service providers, rightholders or other collective management organisations, on the other. This Directive neither prescribes a specific manner in which such alternative dispute resolution should be organised, nor determines which body should carry it out, provided that its independence, impartiality and efficiency is guaranteed. Finally, it is also appropriate to require that Member States have independent, impartial and effective dispute resolution procedures, via bodies having expertise in intellectual property law or via courts, suitable for settling commercial disputes between collective management organisations and users on existing or proposed licensing conditions or on a breach of contract.

(37) █ Member States should establish appropriate procedures by means of which it will be possible to monitor the compliance of collective management organisations with this Directive. While it is not appropriate for this Directive to restrict the choice of Member States as to competent authorities, nor as regards the ex-ante or ex-post nature of the control over collective management organisations, it should be ensured that such authorities are capable of addressing any concern that may arise in the application of this Directive in an effective and timely manner. Member States should not be obliged to set up new competent authorities. Moreover, there should also be a possibility for members of a collective management organisation, rightholders, users, collective management organisations and other interested parties to notify a competent authority in respect of activities or circumstances which, in their opinion, constitute a breach of law by collective management organisations and, where relevant, users. Member States should ensure that competent authorities have the power to impose sanctions or measures where provisions of national law implementing this Directive are not complied with. This Directive does not provide for specific types of sanctions or measures, provided that they are effective, proportionate and dissuasive. Such sanctions or measures may include orders to dismiss directors who acted negligently, inspections at the premises of a collective management organisation or, in cases where an authorisation is issued for an organisation to operate, the withdrawal of such an authorisation. This Directive should remain neutral as regards the prior authorisation and supervision regimes in the Member States, including a requirement for the representativeness of the collective management organisation, in so far as they are compatible with Union law and do not create an obstacle to the full application of this Directive.

(37a) To ensure that the requirements for multi-territorial licensing are complied with, specific provisions on the monitoring of their implementation should be laid down. The competent authorities of the Member States and the █ Commission should cooperate with each other to this end. Member States should provide each other with mutual assistance by way of exchange of information between their competent authorities in order to facilitate the monitoring of collective management organisations.

- (38) It is important for collective management organisations to respect the rights to private life and personal data protection of any rightholder, member, user and other individual whose personal data they process. Directive 95/46/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 24 October 1995 on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data governs the processing of personal data carried out in the Member States in the context of that Directive and under the supervision of the Member States' competent authorities, in particular the public independent authorities designated by the Member States. Rightholders should be given appropriate information about the processing of their data, the recipients of that data, time limits for retention of such data in any database, and how rightholders can exercise their rights to access, correct or delete their personal data concerning them in accordance with Articles 10 and 11 of Directive 95/46/EC. In particular, unique identifiers which allow for the indirect identification of a person should be treated as personal data within the meaning of point (a) of Article 2 of that Directive.

I

- (40) Provisions on enforcement measures should be without prejudice to the competencies of national independent public ■ authorities established by the Member States pursuant to Article 28 of Directive 95/46/EC to monitor the respect of national provisions adopted in implementation of that Directive.
- (41) This Directive respects the fundamental rights and observes the principles enshrined in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. Provisions in the Directive related to dispute resolution ■ should not prevent ■ parties from exercising their right of access to a tribunal as guaranteed in the Charter ■ .
- (42) Since the objectives of this Directive, namely to improve the ability of their members to exercise control over the activities of collective management organisations, to guarantee sufficient transparency by collective management organisations and to improve the multi-territorial licensing of authors' rights for online use of musical works, cannot be sufficiently achieved by Member States and can therefore, by reason of their scale and effects, be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that same Article of the Treaty, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve those objectives.

- (43) The provisions of this Directive are without prejudice to the application of ■ rules on competition, and any other relevant law in other areas including confidentiality, trade secrets, privacy, access to documents, the law of contract and private international law relating to the conflict of laws and the jurisdiction of courts, workers' and employers' freedom of association and their right to organise.
- (44) In accordance with the Joint Political Declaration of Member States and the Commission on explanatory documents of 28 September 2011, Member States have undertaken to accompany, in justified cases, the notification of their transposition measures with one or more documents explaining the relationship between the components of a directive and the corresponding parts of national transposition instruments. With regard to this Directive, the legislator considers the transmission of such documents to be justified.
- (45) The European Data Protection Supervisor was consulted in accordance with Article 28(2) of Regulation (EC) No 45/2001 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 December 2000 on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data by the Community institutions and bodies and on the free movement of such data and delivered an opinion on 9 October 2012.

Chapter 1

Representation of rightholders, membership and organisation of collective management organisations

Article 4

General principles

Member States shall ensure that collective management organisations act in the best interests of the rightholders whose rights they represent and do not impose on them any obligations which are not objectively necessary for the protection of their rights and interests or for the effective management of their rights.

Article 5

Rights of rightholders

1. Member States shall ensure that rightholders have the rights as laid down in paragraphs 2 to 7 and that these rights are set out in the statute or ■ membership terms of the collective management organisation.
2. Rightholders shall have the right to authorise a collective management organisation of their choice to manage the rights, categories of rights or types of works and other subject matter of their choice, for the territories of their choice, irrespective of the Member State of nationality, residence or ■ establishment of either the collective management organisation or the rightholder. Unless the collective management organisation has objectively justified reasons to refuse management, it shall be obliged to manage such rights, categories of rights or types of works and other subject matter, provided that their management falls within its scope of activity.
 - 2a. Rightholders shall have the right to grant licences for the non-commercial uses of the rights, categories of rights or types of works and other subject matter of their choice.

3. Rightholders shall have the right to terminate the authorisation to manage rights, categories of rights or types of works and other subject matter granted by them to a collective management organisation or to withdraw from a collective management organisation any of the rights or categories of rights or types of works and other subject matter of their choice, as determined pursuant to paragraph 2, for the territories of their choice, upon serving reasonable notice not exceeding six months. 6. Where a rightholder authorises a collective management organisation to manage his rights, he shall give consent specifically for each right or category of rights or type of works and other subject matter which that rightholder authorises the collective management organisation to manage. Any such consent shall be evidenced in documentary form.

1. Member States shall ensure that the general assembly of members ■ is organised according to the rules laid down in paragraphs 2 to 8.

1a. Member States may decide that the powers of the general assembly of members may be exercised by an assembly of delegates elected at least every four years by the members of the collective management organisation, provided that:

(a) appropriate and effective participation of members in the collective management organisation's decision-making process is ensured; and

(b) the representation of the different categories of members in the assembly of delegates is fair and balanced.

The rules laid down in paragraphs 2 to 8 shall apply to the assembly of delegates mutatis mutandis.

- 1b. Member States may decide that where a collective management organisation is precluded by reason of its legal form from having a general assembly of members, the powers of the general assembly of members shall be exercised by the body exercising the supervisory function. The rules laid down in paragraphs 2 to 5 and 5b to 6 shall apply to such body exercising the supervisory function mutatis mutandis.*
- 1c. Member States may decide that where a collective management organisation has members who are entities representing rightholders, all or some of the powers of the general assembly of members may be exercised by an assembly of these rightholders. The rules laid down in paragraphs 2 to 8 shall apply to the assembly of rightholders mutatis mutandis.*
2. A general assembly of members ■ shall be convened at least once a year.
3. The general assembly of members shall approve any amendments to the statute and the membership terms of the collective management organisation, where these terms are not regulated by the statute.

4. The general assembly of members shall ■ decide on the appointment or dismissal of the directors, review their general performance and approve their remuneration and other benefits such as monetary and non-monetary benefits, pension awards and entitlements, rights to other awards and rights to severance pay.

In a collective management organisation with a dual board system, the general assembly of members shall not decide on the appointment or dismissal of members of the management board or approve their remuneration and other benefits where the power to take these decisions is delegated to the supervisory board ■ .

5. In accordance with the provisions laid down in Chapter 2 of Title II, the general assembly of members shall decide at least on the following issues:

- (a) the general policy on the distribution of the amounts due to rightholders ■ ;
- (b) the general policy on the use of non-distributable amounts;
- (c) the general investment policy ■ with regard to rights revenue and to any income arising from the investment of rights revenue;

- (d) the general policy on deductions from rights revenue and from any income arising from the investment of rights revenue;
- (da) the use of non-distributable amounts;
- (db) the risk management policy;
- (e) the approval of any acquisition, sale or hypothecation of immovable property;
- (f) the approval of mergers and alliances, setting-up subsidiaries, acquiring other entities or shares or rights in other entities;
- (g) the approval of taking out loans, granting loans or providing security for loans.

- 5a. The general assembly of members may delegate the powers in points (db), (e), (f) and (g), by a resolution or by a provision in the statute, to the body exercising the supervisory function.
- 5b. For the purposes of points (a) to (da) of paragraph 5, Member States may require the general assembly of members to determine more detailed conditions for the use of the rights revenue and the income arising from investment of rights revenue.
6. The general assembly of members shall control the activities of the collective management organisation by, at least, deciding on the appointment and removal of the auditor and approving the annual transparency report referred to in Article 20.
- Member States may allow alternative systems or modalities for the appointment and removal of the auditor, provided that these systems or modalities are designed to ensure the independence of the auditor from the persons who manage the business of the collective management organisation.*

7. All members of the collective management organisation shall have the right to participate and vote at the general assembly of members. However, Member States may allow for restrictions on the right of the members of the collective management organisation to participate in and to exercise voting rights at the general assembly of members, on the basis of one or both of the following criteria:

- (a) duration of membership;
- (b) amounts received or due to a member ■ ;

provided that such criteria are determined and applied in a manner that is fair and proportionate.

These criteria shall be included in the statute or the membership terms of the collective management organisation and shall be made publicly available in accordance with Articles 17 and 19.

8. Every member of a collective management organisation shall have the right to appoint any other person or entity as a proxy holder to participate in and vote at the general assembly of members in his name, provided that such appointment does not result in a conflict of interest which might occur, for example, where the appointing member and the proxy holder belong to different categories of rightholders within the collective management organisation.

However, Member States may provide for restrictions concerning the appointment of proxy holders and the exercise of the voting rights of the members they represent if such restrictions do not prejudice the appropriate and effective participation of members in the decision-making process of a collective management organisation.

Each proxy shall be valid for a single general assembly of members. The proxy holder shall enjoy the same rights in the general assembly of members as those to which the appointing member would be entitled. The proxy holder shall cast votes in accordance with the instructions issued by the appointing member.

Article 8

1. Member States shall ensure that the collective management organisation has a supervisory function which is responsible for continuously monitoring the activities and the performance of the duties of the persons who manage the business of the organisation.
 - 1a. There shall be fair and balanced representation of the different categories of members of the collective management organisation in the body exercising the supervisory function.
 - 1b. Each person exercising the supervisory function shall make an annual individual statement on conflicts of interest containing the information referred to in Article 9(2), second subparagraph to the general assembly of members.
2. The body exercising the supervisory function shall meet regularly and shall have at least the following powers:

(d) to exercise the powers delegated to it by the general assembly of members, including under Article 7(4) and (5);

(e) to monitor the activities and the performance of the duties of the persons referred to in Article 9, including the implementation of the decisions of the general assembly of members and in particular, of the general policies listed in points (a) to (d) of Article 7(5).

2b. The body exercising the supervisory function shall report on the exercise of its powers to the general assembly of members at least once a year.

I

Article 9

Obligations of the persons who manage the business of the collective management organisation

1. Member States shall ensure that a collective management organisation ensures that the persons who manage the business of the collective management organisation do so in a sound, prudent and appropriate manner, using sound administrative and accounting procedures and internal control mechanisms.
2. Member States shall ensure that collective management organisations put in place and apply procedures so as to avoid conflicts of interest, and where these cannot be avoided, to identify, manage, monitor and disclose actual or potential conflicts of interest in order to prevent them from adversely affecting the collective interests of the rightholders the organisation represents.

These procedures shall include an annual individual statement by each of the persons referred to in paragraph 1 to the general assembly of members, containing the following information:

- (a) any interests in the collective management organisation;
- (b) any remuneration received from the collective management organisation, including pension schemes, benefits-in-kind and other types of benefits in the preceding financial year;

- (c) any amounts received as a rightholder from the collective management organisation in the preceding financial year;
- (d) a declaration on any actual or potential conflict between any personal interests and those of the collective management organisation or between any obligations towards the collective management organisation and any duty to any other natural or legal person.

Chapter 2

Management of rights revenue

Article 10

Collection and use of rights revenue

- 1. Member States shall ensure that collective management organisations comply with the rules laid down in paragraphs 1 to 4.
- 1. A collective management organisation shall be diligent in the collection and management of rights revenue.

2. A collective management organisation shall ■ keep separate in its accounts:
- (a) rights revenue and any income arising from the investment of rights revenue; and
 - (b) any own assets it may have and income arising from such assets, from management fees or ■ from ■ other activities.
3. A collective management organisation shall not be allowed to use rights revenue or any income arising from the investment of rights revenue for purposes other than distribution to rightholders, save that it may deduct or offset its management fees in compliance with a decision taken in accordance with point (d) of Article 7(5) or use the rights revenue or any income arising from the investment of rights revenue in compliance with a decision taken in accordance with Article 7(5).

4. Where a collective management organisation invests █ rights revenue or any income arising from the investment of rights revenue, it shall do so in the best interests of the rightholders whose rights it represents, in accordance with the general investment and risk management policy referred to in points (c) and (db) of Article 7(5) and having regard to the following rules:
- (a) █ where there is any potential conflict of interest, the collective management organisation shall ensure that the investment is made in the sole interest of these rightholders;
 - (b) the assets shall be invested in order to ensure the security, quality, liquidity and profitability of the portfolio as a whole;
 - (c) the assets shall be properly diversified in order to avoid excessive reliance on any particular asset and accumulations of risks in the portfolio as a whole.

Article 11
Deductions

1. Member States shall ensure that where a rightholder authorises a collective management organisation to manage his rights, the collective management organisation shall provide the rightholder with information on deductions from the rights revenue and from any income arising from the investment of rights revenue, before obtaining his consent to manage his rights.
 - 1a. Deductions should be reasonable in relation to the services provided by the collective management organisation to rightholders, including, where appropriate, the services referred to in paragraph 2, and should be established on the basis of objective criteria.
 - 1b. Management fees shall not exceed the justified and documented costs incurred by the collective management organisation for the management of copyright and related rights.

Member States shall ensure that the requirements applicable to the use and to the transparency of the use of amounts deducted or offset for management fees shall apply to any other deductions made in order to cover the costs of the management of copyright or related rights.

2. Where a collective management organisation provides social, cultural or educational services funded through deductions from rights revenue and from any income arising from the investment of rights revenue, such services shall be provided on the basis of fair criteria, in particular as regards the access to and the extent of these services.

Distribution of the amounts due to rightholders

1. Without prejudice to Articles 14(3) and 26, Member States shall ensure that a collective management organisation regularly, diligently, accurately and in accordance with the general policy on distribution referred to in Article 7(5)(a) distributes and pays amounts due to rightholders ■ .

Member States shall also ensure that a collective management organisation or its members who are entities representing rightholders distribute and pay to rightholders these amounts as soon as possible but no later than 9 months from the end of the financial year in which the rights revenue was collected, unless objective reasons related in particular to reporting by users, identification of rights, rightholders or matching of information on works and other subject matter with rightholders prevent the collective management organisation or, where applicable, its members from respecting this deadline.

2. Where the amounts due to rightholders cannot be distributed within the deadline set out in paragraph 1 because the relevant rightholders cannot be identified or located and the exception to the deadline referred to in paragraph 1 does not apply, these amounts shall be kept separate in the accounts of a collective management organisation.
